Keep Ahead With Flannels

The most refreshing of all the New Spring Fabrics for New Spring Suits are the Flannels imported expressly from Scotland for Perry & Co. They are different — unusual — beautiful. Their Light Gray and Tan Shades are attractive backgrounds for many handsome Stripe Effects.

Cheviots Always Popular in Institutions of Higher Learning

Light-toned Cheviots in a wealth of color shades and patterns: Wood Gray, Stone Blue, Tiger Tan, Rust Brown, etc.

Solving the Great Vital Problems of Life

TOWARD the Spring of his Freshman Year the University Man realizes that getting the Scale Pan to Balance and Manipulating a Chemistry Experiment so that it is practically done 'Backwards is not the Great Problem in Life.

Happiness Necessary

No. The Vital Problem is Happiness — friendly associations with other people and chiefly the ability to Favorably Impress the Other Sex.

Here is where you can Throw Textbook Knowledge into the Waste-basket. What you want to write home for is not a Credit Slip at the College Book Store, but a Check for a New Suit. The sum required if you're thinking of Perry's can safely be mentioned in a letter — our Super-Value Prices won't cause heart-failure.

The New Perry Models in Single and Double-breasted Suits

Broad Shoulders, Snug Hips, a Noticeable Waistline, Pointed Vests, Wide, Straight Trousers — an Ensemble as Classic as a Page from Horace.

Stake out your claim in this field

ONE field where there is still undeveloped territory, still room for pioneers, is the electrical industry. This will be encouraging news to the man who thinks he was born too late.

If your aptitude is technical, there are years of usefulness ahead of you in helping to design, construct and operate public utility lines. And too, fast-growing markets for electrical apparatus call for more and more college-trained men in the manufacturing end of this industry.

Or if your interests are along commercial lines, there is a broad opportunity for you here in the various departments of purchasing, accounting, distributing, selling and advertising

$100 for a name

Marlowe sang "the topless towers of Ilium." I sing the topless tubes of Mennen. I want a good name for the new non-removable, non-refillable, non-leakable device that now makes the Mennen Shaving Cream container as inimitable as its contents.

Others have tried to denature the capricious cap. Mennen has abolished it.

Just move the Mennen knob a quarter turn and a hole magically appears. After you've squeezed out enough cream, another quarter turn closes the hole as tight as a drum. No threads to engage, no bother of any kind.

It's a knock-out—as far ahead of other sealing devices as Mennen Shaving Cream is ahead of the procession.

We've called this new patented feature "the plug-tite top." We want a better name. If you can suggest one we like, we'll send you a hundred dollars. If more than one submits the winning name, each one will get the century check.

To everyone who sends a suggestion we'll mail a complimentary tube of Mennen Skin Balm, the cooling, healing after-shave cream that's fragrant and greaseless. Let me hear from you. Contest closes July first. Use the coupon.

Down at McGill University where Liberty is still something besides the name of a magazine, the chapter houses of the various fraternities have more than their fair share of visitors from the American chapters of their fraternities. It is generally suspected that the Quebec liquor laws have something to do with this. To fit the situation, "The Star-Spangled Banner" has been rewritten. In its revised version, as sung at McGill, it starts:

Climb up atop the continent in Glacier Park where the most magnificent panorama in all the world unfolds.

The views alone are worth the trip Glacier NATIONAL PARK

"See America First"

Open June 15 to September 15

Come to Glacier National Park this summer. Hike, ride horse-back, motor, fish. Live in fine hotels or rustic chalets; camp in the refreshing open or loaf luxuriously. Something new to do and see each day no matter how long you stay.

You can travel direct to Glacier National Park, without change and without extra fare, either on the de luxe New Oriental Limited, finest train to Pacific Northwest, or other fine trains—for Glacier Park is on the main line of the Great Northern Railway, which traverses the southern boundary of the park for 60 miles. Arrange for Glacier Park stop-off—an all-expense-paid tour of 1 to 7 days or longer—or a Glacier-Yellowstone circuit tour, on your way to or from

The Northwest Via the New Oriental Limited

This brand-new, all-steel, wonder train, with its bathrooms, (for women as well as for men), barber shop, maid, manicure and valet service, and unsurpassed cuisine, runs direct between Chicago, Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland via Spokane in 70 hours—1100 miles of the route behind giant oil-burning, cinderless locomotives. You see high peaks from low passes on the Great Northern—only 60 miles of the entire main line are above 4,000 feet.

Before or after visiting Glacier Park, take the free side trip to Vancouver. See Victoria, Lake Chelan, Rainier, and Crater Lake National Parks. Great Northern schedules facilitate steamer connections for Alaska and The Orient. Your choice of steamer or rail to or from California. ## The Longest Gangplank in the World

ALL that France means to you is yours, from the time you blow a kiss to Madame Liberty and promise to give her love to the land she came from—you have France from Sandy Hook to Havre—if you travel via "the longest gangplank in the world."

France isn't rocks and fields and station names. France is French people, living in the customs they love wherever they go. . . . Those delicious little French breakfasts in your cabin. . . . That delightful French courtesy from the steward on deck. . . . Those glimpses of the "Guignol," with all the children sitting entranced. . . . The international table talk at lunch. . . . Such a lunch. . . . Parties at night—bridge, dancing, the pool on the ship's run. . . . Before you know it, you're in Havre, the port of Paris—no transferring to tenders—just another gangplank—then the boat-train—and in three hours you're in Paris.

You can go to France this summer via "the longest gangplank in the world" for one hundred and forty dollars, in the large one-cabin liners. You can even make a round trip for one hundred and sixty-two dollars—Tourist III class, with individual rooms as the college boys and girls are doing. You can take your car along with you, uncrated, and drive it off the dock at Havre. You can live well in France—and tour—on six dollars a day. . . . Write for interesting booklet.

Take A Weekly Trip Home . . . Over The Telephone

College Men Have The Habit

There is no secret about it. The men whose English themes elicit well-merited praise from critical professors or whose mathematics usually measures up to par . . . are the men who capitalize the faith and the interest of the people at home.

Let Mother and Dad hear from you in reality, and regularly. Tell them your problems and report your progress over the telephone. Make it a weekly habit.

It may seem a far cry to your home town, but a few words spoken into the telephone will bring it to your college campus!

This little folder has been distributed on the campus. It tells you how low the rates really are.

If your home town is not included in the list, see the front pages of the telephone directory.

The Long Distance Operator will give you rates not shown there.

BURROW'S SHORT STORY

Livid horrors seared his memory as he lay wretched and wide-eyed. His burning throat throbbed as the hot breath hissed through it. God!—he had done it all in a frenzied moment of passionate desire. He could picture himself the cruel, unsympathetic, leer which would cross the expression of his roommate when Jack learned of the whole dastardly affair. Slave of impulse!—they had resolved in the privacy of their room—yeah—joined themselves together in solemn oath never to succumb to the Fiend—Desire! And he had TOP- PLED. Why was he not sent away before that unquenchable surge had tempted him? Regret wrapped his feverish soul in taut coils, oppressing him with tense pain. He had been dragged—dragged along by that damned irresis-

DRAMA IN ONE ACT

She—"Well—"

Silence.
She—"You're rather shy."
He—"I haven't a cent."
More silence.
She (desperately)—"Oh, dear!

THE FRESHMAN PRIMER

This is a show. It is a Mus-tard and Cheese show. How do you do, Mustard and Cheese show? It is a good show. Do you not think it is a good show? No, it is a cheesy show.

The name used to be the "Beer and Cheese" show. That was before our be-love-ed dean came. He made it nec-ess-ary for us to re-move the Beer. The dean has the Beer. The dean has the Cheese. The dean had the Cheese be-fore re-mov-ing the Beer. The dean al-ways had the Cheese. Is the dean a big Cheese? No. We love our dean. We love our Beer. Is it not sad?

We love our dean more than we love our Beer. We do not like Beer (Hush, children!). The dean said we must not love Beer. The dean said we must love the dean. The dean made it nec-ess-ary to write the Fresh-man Prim-er.

Isn't it sad?

Why does a Scotchman have a sense of humor?
Because it's a gift.

Published monthly by the students of Lehigh University. Subscription, two dollars and a half. Address all communications to the Editor, Bethlehem, Pa. All business communications to A. G. BRUCE BARTON in one of his "Common Sense" editorials, says "Don't take yourself too seriously... There is an old old saying about a thing being funny enough to make a horse laugh. The power of laughter is reserved to the human race, and... is the principal mark of man's superiority over beasts."

In our estimation, Mr. Barton, on whom one can usually depend to hit the proverbial nail on the head, has this time struck a railroad spike with a sledge hammer blow. Humor is the grease that keeps the axle of the world from squeeking. There is nothing so ludicrous as a small man who takes himself too seriously, nor can there be anything so seriously worth while as a smile to help dispel the all prevading fog of gloom.

BURRO, in his assinine old way, has shaken his shaggy ears at adverse criticisms, and done his level best to come back with a typical kick and a truly contagious jackass bray, just to try to prove that a laugh is the most serious thing in the world. The retiring board has, for one year, conscientiously turned the crank of the sausage grinding machine, into which are stuffed contributions, and out of which the BURR is issued, because it knows the seriousness of humor, and just what a necessary attribute it is to the scheme of existence.

We know that, as long as there is a Lehigh, there will be a BURR, and nothing can shake our faith, that it will continue to grow, with, always ahead of it the high ideal of its contribution of the most "serious thing in life." VALE!

THE Lehigh BURR wishes to announce a revision of the constitution, put into effect by the board of 1924-1925, to run for the period of one year. Instead of the editor being the presiding officer of the board, there will be a "Chairman of the Board" who will be directly responsible for the advertising, business, editorial and art departments. The other positions will be the same as in previous years, with the exception that the editor will be relieved of executive work, and the managing editor is omitted altogether.

following officers were elected under the new system:—Chairman of the Board, John J. Unkles of East Orange, N. J.; Editor, John A. Meyers of York, Pa.; Art Editor, W. F. Wil-murt of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Secretary, H. Rich, West Orange, N. J.; Business Manager, Robert L. Trainer of Irvington, N. Y.; Advertising Manager, Charles K. Zug of Philadelphia, Pa.; Circulation Manager, John W. Maxwell of Philadelphia, Pa.

At a meeting held on April 17, 1925, the The old board thanks its followers and gracefully bows out in favor of the new, wishing them every success possible.

HOW I FOUND A SHORT CUT TO POPULARITY

When they called me a back number, something within me rebelled. My pride, perhaps. Then it dawned upon me! At first I didn't believe anyone could become popular so quickly, and yet, here's what happened.

I never was much of a dancer. But when our club gave a dance, I couldn't very well stay away. Besides—how could I ever learn to dance if I didn't get some experience?

I discovered (though, that no one wanted to dance with me. The boys knew I was a poor dancer and they warned the girls to keep away from me. "Jim?" I heard one of the boys say. "Oh, Jim's all right, but he doesn't know a waltz from a fox-trot." The girls laughed. It made me want to chuck it all and never go to another dance again.

But something within me rebelled. My pride,

The college man's highest ambition is to play with Lois Wilson in the "Covered Wagon."

Archie is so dumb that he wears gloves to the movies in order to applaud inconspicuously.

"What's your business?"

"Coming out parties."

"Society man?"

"No. Dandruff expert."

WE NOMINATE FOR THE HALL OF FAME

The man who leaves his neck dirty so that his last shirt looks clean.

CUKOO

Little Jack Horner, sat in the corner
Thumbing his nose at the Prof.,
Said he, "This is Pi, for one such as I,
For up in my head, I am off."

THIS IS JUST ANOTHER CASE
OF "BLACK AND BLEW."

I'M THE GUY!

I was born a hundred thousand years ago
And there is nothing much that I don't know:
I saw Peter, Paul and Moses, playing Ring
    Around the Rosies,
About a hundred thousand years ago.

I saw Eve and Adam ent'ring in the door,
Saw Satan as he looked the garden o'er;
I was in the bushes beating, as the apple they were eating;
In fact, I was the guy who ate the core.

I saw Noah when he began to fill the Ark;
Saw Moses in the cellar in the dark;
Was in the whale a clinging, when this Jonah
    was a singing
Played hide and seek with Mathew, Luke, and Mark.

I spooned with Cleopatra on the Nile;
Those things they call the pyramids I piled;
I saw Abel raising Cain; drank the forty days
    of rain,
And kept the thousand wives of Solomon in style.

I knocked Sampson out in forty umpteen
    rounds;
Goliath, I put underneath the ground.
I beat Isaac in a deal, on a Ford automobile,
And when Gabriel blows his trumpet, I'll be round.

IT JUST GOES TO SHOW!

She drinks and she pets,
And she smokes cigarettes,
But I love her as drunkards love wine.
'Tis her one great delight
To stay out at night——
That sweet old gran'mommer of mine!

Stude (in music store)—“Have you Snake's Hips?”

Pretty Clerk—“Try and find out.”

---

Diner—“Waiter, there's a button in my soup.”
Waiter (ex-printer)—“Typographical error
sir; it should be mutton.”

"I could kiss your wife to death."

"Wish you would."

SHORT CUT TO POPULARITY

perhaps. "Show them you can do it!" it whispered. "Show them you can do it as well as they!" But how? I asked myself. I really couldn't dance.

Suddenly I had an idea. Yes, I'd do it! I'd astound them! I remembered having seen advertised, THREE LESSONS OF PROF. BUNKUM'S DANCING LESSONS, FREE OF CHARGE. I sent for them special delivery.

When I received them I was delighted. Within two minutes I had torn them up, stamped upon them, and sworn off dancing forever!

I became popular overnight.

REALISM

Mother—"Now don't be afraid, dear. Go to sleep. The angels are with you."

Buddie—"Yeh, mom, but they're bitin'."

L' ENVOI

A year or more, (a longish time!)

We've sat upon a chair
With shears and paste, an sealing wax
And made a book up, there.
We'd cuss and swear, and fume and tear
And break the Golden Rules
In making us the issue, and we'd call each other fools

And swear a million times to quit
But ere a month was gone
We'd take the weary quill again
And . . . simply carry on.

But now the job is over, and there's nothing more to do

The ink has dried upon the pen, for now the work is through

With not a single word of cheer,
And not a word of praise
And not a smile to make worth while
The dreary bygone days . . .

And yet, we'd do it all again
If time would backward go,
We'd grime and sweat . . . again forget . . .
It's deuced queer, you know!

What Fifth Avenue Shops Say About Smart Golf Togs

Vanity Fair's Assembled Wardrobe

An Example of What the Smart Young Man Will Wear for Spring

Included in every well dressed man's wardrobe this year, there will be a double-breasted suit of lightweight material for early Spring and Summer. The suit suggested in the ensemble above is made of grey flannel with a white stripe, such as the Prince of Wales wore when here last Autumn. For Summer, the double-breasted has a great advantage over the single-breasted jacket, because in hot weather, when worn without a waistcoat, it gives a much neater appearance than the single-breasted jacket without a waistcoat, which shows too great an expanse of shirt front and tie. In the ensemble suggested, the shirt is grey. It should, of course, be of a shade that would be pleasing with the grey flannel of the suit, for, as every one knows, greys do not all go well together when combined with other greys, and should therefore be most carefully chosen. Of course, black shoes would be worn with this suit, though brown are not incorrect. A grey felt hat with a darker band, also of the right shade to harmonize with the grey of the suit, a grey handkerchief with a grey and white, or solid white border, and socks of a mixture of grey and white, or black and grey, completes the list of accessories in this ensemble, with the exception of the tie, which is, in this case, the one bright note of colour worn. The tie is a yellow foulard pattern in brown and red, and, though it is nothing unusual and is easily obtained, it is a very successful colour note when combined with grey, and will be particularly popular in the coming season when grey flannels will be so much worn. The really well dressed man, when analyzed, is always one who is dressed in some such simple colour scheme, as the one outlined above. A bright blue foulard tie, or one of grey with a red design, would be equally good, but to introduce other colours in the remaining accessories listed would at once detract from the direct simplicity carried out in such a combination, as shown above.

If you are interested in any question of dress or etiquette, write the "Well Dressed Man," care the (Lehigh Burr), and your letter will receive prompt and careful attention. Do not fail to give accurate address.

(Copyright, 1925, by Vanity Fair, New York)

From the source of supply, the Fifth Avenue shop, come many new suggestions in the way of clothes for the golfer and sportsman for early spring. From one of the best-known of these comes the suggestion of homespun knickers in Fair Isle patterns matched up with plain sweaters and golf stockings, as a change from the idea presented last year by the same shop of a Fair Isle sweater with a suit of some plain colour in a harmonious material. These Fair Isle knickers are in an attractive colour combination of green, brown, tan, and black, and the sweater and stockings that go with them are in light brown with a border suggesting the Fair Isle pattern. Coloured linen knickerbockers, especially those shown in one Fifth Avenue shop, which are woven to imitate Harris tweeds in herringbone and diamond patterns, are one of the latest novelties. With these are shown caps made in a matching material and the combination, when worn with an odd harmonious sports jacket in almost any one of the new materials, is very effective. Soft felt hats called "Flannel Felts" in a great variety of shades are also something new, and should be found in several colours in every man's summer wardrobe, so as to set off to advantage sport togs of every hue.

If you are interested in any question of dress or etiquette, write the "Well Dressed Man," care the (Lehigh Burr) and your letter will receive prompt and careful attention. Do not fail to give accurate address.
